

CONSTRUCTED WETLAND TYPES

Constructed wetlands for wastewater treatment can be configured to meet a variety of water quality, footprint, habitat, and aesthetic goals. They range from primarily passive operation to active operation with treatment dosing or cycling. Additionally, treatment media options include gravel, saturated soil, specialty rock, and woodchips.

